Electric cutoff saves residents from themselves

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — All four burners of the gas stove were burning, full force; the oven door was open and the oven was turned on high.

It was a chilly, not bitter cold, afternoon. But residents of 2005-07 Missouri Ave. needed the stove — it was the only heat available.

The building is in a "dangerous state" according to an inspection report Nov. 2 from Building Inspector John Jakich. "The building is infested with insects and mice," the report says. "No knob or lock on front upstairs door; broken window on rear of building; siding, rain gutters, downspouts ... all in need of repairs."

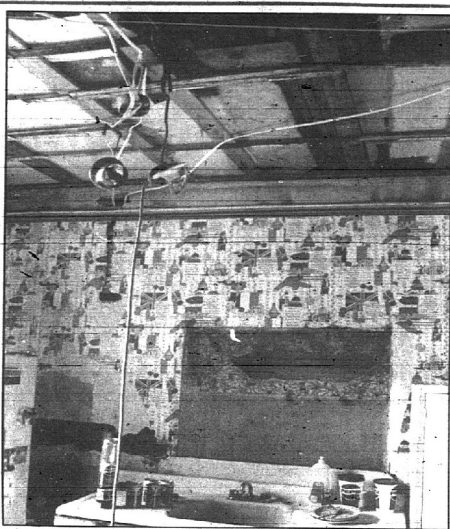

Descriptions of the inside of the apartments include: "ceiling, walls and floors all in need of repairs," "paint peeling in all rooms," "no heat."

Rent, a resident said, is $275 a month including utilities. Including utilities is a key phrase. Whether by choice or not, no one should be living at 2005-07 Missouri because there is no record of occupancy permits being issued for present occupants, according to the inspecting Department.

The city's occupancy permit ordinance requires that a residence pass a building inspection before being occupied. But, if a landlord doesn't notify the city and the utilities always stay in the same name, it is possible to sneak new residents past the city, according to inspectors.

This, the city alleges, is what has happened at nearby 2318 Illinois Ave. A description of that building, in a Nov. 2 building inspection report, includes:

"The building is infested with insects and mice; the chimney (See HAZARD, Page 5A)

Fingers crossed, city awaits final OK from Wal-Mart

By Dennis Grubaugh
Managing editor

EAST PEORIA — Preparing for what they hope is Wal-Mart's final OK for a store in the downtown area, two Granite City officials went north Wednesday to find out how another city used a similar plan to take a blighted area and transform it into a $10 million economic wonder.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse and Economic Development Director Alan Ortals visited for more than two hours with East Peoria Director of Public Affairs Jay Thompson and City Attorney Derf Triggs on strategies they used to develop East Peoria's downtown area. That plan is very similar to what Granite City intends in its own community.

Wal-Mart's real estate division has recommended a store for downtown Granite City to the executive committee of the company headquartered in Bentonville, Ark., Cruse said.

That committee is scheduled to visit Granite City in either February or March for an inspection of the site and would make the final decision on a store, Cruse said.

Cruse said Wal-Mart is discussing an 88,000-square-foot store, with another 20,000 square feet of space to expand.

Central to the project is the city's ability to finance and acquire more than 60 properties in an area bordered by Madison Avenue to the southeast, 20th Street to the northeast, Edison Avenue to the northwest and 18th Street to the southwest.

More than 30 businesses, including four auto dealers, the Washington Theater location, Leader Department Store and many others would be affected, Cruse said. Only four or five residential properties would be acquired, and they are rental, he said.

In the Wal-Mart plans, the store would face Madison Avenue and be located across from the Granite City Steel mill.

A series of four outlots would be contained on the Madison (See Wal-Mart, Page 6A)

Webster will close at year's end

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Having served District 9 for nearly a century, Webster School will close its doors at the end of this school year.

As promised at a Jan. 10 public hearing concerning the closing and the fall 1989 reopening of Lake School, the school board made the decision during Tuesday night's meeting.

"I think it would be wise to close up Webster for the summer as we normally would," Superintendent Gib Walmsley said. "It is our intentions to be in Lake by this fall but we may have to continue work on that building through September."

Walmsley said Ron Landman, supervisor of buildings and grounds, can now begin seeking bids for appropriate work and bring those bids to the board as needed for its consideration.

Landman said he intended to begin working on available parts of the Lake building as soon as possible. The Educational Therapy Center, which deals with behaviorally disturbed students, currently occupies one wing of the building.

Walmsley said the decision also authorizes the board to notify Madison County Regional Superintendent of Schools Harry Briggs Jr., whose office operates the E.T.C. program, that Lake will no longer be available to that office following the end of the 1988-89 school year.

"Mr. Briggs has informed me that he is not interested in Webster School as a possible location for his program," Walmsley said.

Briggs and E.T.C. officials are currently negotiating with the District 12 administration in Madison for possible use of Louis Bauer School, which was closed at the end of the 1987-88 school year.

While the fate of the Webster School property is still an uncertainty, Walmsley said nothing will happen to it before the start of classes this fall.

"We want to be sure that we are appropriately housed in Lake School before we do anything to dispose of Webster," Walmsley said.

One possibility is that the property could become a park. At last week's public forum, 3rd Ward Alderman Paul Fisk said he had spoken to city officials, who told him community development funds might be available for such a purpose.

Family rolled by twister lives

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Friday the 13th was something of a lucky day for Brenda Beiter.

Her husband, Dennis, 29, was released from a Mount Vernon hospital, and she and her young family were preparing to start life in a new home after a tornado destroyed their mobile home and all their belongings.

Beiter, 31, had been staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sullivan of Granite City, following the Jan. 7 storm that officials dubbed a "micro burst" of extremely strong wind.

The location was Macedonia, Ill., about 90 miles southeast of here. Macedonia is about 40 miles west of Allendale. In the latter community, a twister destroyed a large part of the town and injured more than 50 people, but miraculously no one was killed.

Beiter said she had just walked out of the bathroom in the late afternoon that Saturday when she noticed heavy winds beating against the back of the mobile home. Before she could say anything to her husband, the trailer was airborne.

The structure rolled three times before breaking in half, Beiter said.

Her left ankle suffered a crushing injury, resulting in surgery and a four-day hospital stay.

Dennis Beiter underwent facial surgery last week. His sub-orbital bones (directly beneath the eyes) were broken, as was his jaw. He also suffered a cracked rib.

Two of the Beiters' three children, Daniel, 4, and Katherine, 2, were unharmed. Matthew, 3, escaped with a black eye and a bruise on the back of his head.

Beiter said she had feared the worst while trying to reunite the family.

"My oldest son was with my husband and he was OK," Beiter said. "I crawled to the other side of the driveway where the rest of the trailer was and got to the baby. She was still in her crib."

Dennis Beiter walked a half mile to a neighbor's to get help. "When the medical people finally got there, they were flabbergasted that the kids weren't hurt," Beiter said. "They were really surprised that we weren't killed."

The family could not salvage its belongings. "Some of our clothes were laying out but the officers (American Red Cross personnel) told us not to take them because they were full of insulation and debris," Beiter said. "They said we should burn them."

In Benton, the Beiters' parish and other church and civic groups rented the family a home. The groups also provided clothing, furniture, toys and money. She said she was also grateful to local groups from Frohardt, Grigsby and Parkview schools, the Salvation Army and churches including Tri-City Park Tabernacle.

Despite the ordeal, Beiter looked forward to life in her new home, this time a house.

"No more trailers ever," Beiter said. "I learned my lesson." She said she was glad to have the chance to start over.

"We're all together, we're alive, and that's what's important."

Council increases several salaries

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The City Council on Tuesday passed ordinances giving future pay raises to those holding all elected city offices.

Most of the officials have current terms ending April 30. Effective May 1, the mayor's salary will rise from $33,600 to $45,000 a year. It will rise again to $47,000 on May 1, 1991.

The salaries of the clerk and treasurer will rise from $30,000 to $33,000 on May 1, and to $37,000 in 1991. Aldermanic salaries will double from $2,700 to $5,400 for those elected this year.

The vote on the mayoral increase was 11-2, with 1st Ward Alderman Casmer Skulish and 4th Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak dissenting. (First Ward Alderman Everett Morlen was absent due to illness.) Skulish was the only dissenter on the salaries of the clerk and the treasurer.

Skulish, Perjak and the 3rd Ward's Brett Hanke dissented on the aldermanic raises. The last time aldermen got a pay raise was in 1971.

During the discussion preceding the vote on the aldermanic raises, Hanke characterized them as "absurd."

Skulish admonished all the officials by paraphrasing John F. Kennedy: "Ask not what your city can do for you. Ask what you can do for your city."

In other action the council voted unanimously for a one-year extension of the city's trash collection contract with Laidlaw Waste Systems Inc.

Henke, chairman of the city's labor negotiations committee, reported that the city and the union representing the firefighters had jointly requested federal mediation of the contract talks.

Granite to be site of main Costello office

GRANITE CITY — This city has been chosen for the principal office of Congressman Jerry F. Costello, sources said this week. Announcement that the congressman, a Belleville Democrat, will establish a local office was made at Tuesday night's City Council meeting by Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse.

It is to be located at 1316 Niedringhaus Ave., occupying the other half of the building that houses the 1314 Niedringhaus regional office of Illinois Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan, sources said.

An army of unemployed men, estimated at 4,000 to 5,000, invaded Granite City on Sunday afternoon, attracted by an untruthful report in a St. Louis newspaper that the industries of Granite City were to "reopen" Monday morning and give employment to 9,000 men.

Cannabis plants allegedly growing in kitchen closet

GRANITE CITY — Two men were charged with unlawful production/possession of cannabis and a third with unlawful possession of cannabis after several growing plants allegedly were found at an apartment in the 1600 block of State Street.

Brown said he'd been staying with Romanik for the past month at the State Street apartment and was growing street.

An officer said the apartment was in total disarray with various items strewn about the living room. In a kitchen closet, there allegedly were five marijuana plants growing under six "grow lights."

Three large plastic crates filled with dirt and potting soil contained several large marijuana plants and several smaller plants, police contended. Fifteen small glasses on the floor also were filled with dirt, it was alleged.

Cox allegedly had a ceramic bowl pipe containing leaves and residue.

When Romanik arrived at the apartment, he was arrested along with the others.

Two boys shoot BB pistol into crowded playground

GRANITE CITY — A potentially hazardous situation existed at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday when two youths allegedly fired a BB pistol several times into the playground area at Prather Elementary School, 2300 W. 25th St.

The sole casualty was a 12-year-old Mitchell boy who reported being hit in the ear lobe by a BB, according to Prather Principal Gail Ellie.

The school nurse checked the pupil, who was not marked by the BB and may just have been grazed. Ellie said.

There is some uncertainty whether he was hit or if cinders from a nearby track being swirled by the wind struck him, she said.

"There was a lot of yelling going on at the time," the principal said.

The youths, who were recognized by some Prather students, were seen to be holding a gun by teachers and pupils.

The pair allegedly took numerous shots at the children playing on the playground, reports said.

The two boys came toward the school across the Granite City Soccer Club field, northwest of Prather, and headed toward North Street upon leaving.

Officers searched the immediate area without finding the youths, but located them a short time later in the 2200 block of Bryan Avenue.

Before they were found, an officer went to the home of a 14-year-old boy allegedly involved in the incident, and was told by the father that his son was at school.

A check with the school disclosed the boy had been sent home two days earlier and, at that time, he was told that he must bring his parents when he returned to class.

After being questioned, the two boys agreed to take a police sergeant to where the BB pistol was located. The pistol was hidden in a hollow tree on the east side of Logan School.

A .177 caliber American Classic BB pistol made by Crossman was recovered. A box of BBs also was confiscated by police.

The 14-year-old boy was charged with aggravated battery (city charge) and truancy. His 15-year-old companion was charged with discharging fire arms in the city limits and truancy.

The charges are all misdemeanor offenses and the youths were released to the custody of their parents, pending a hearing.

CINDY MILLER HOLDS her son, Ian Paul Miller, the first baby of 1989 at Christian Hospital Northeast/Northwest in St. Louis County. She is from Granite City.

Granite couple proud of 'first' at hospital

More than $500 in gifts and services were presented to the family of the first baby born in 1989 at the Northwest Division of Christian Hospital Northeast-Northwest in a special ceremony Jan. 4 at the hospital.

The gifts, including car seats, savings bonds and gift certificates, were presented to John and Cindy Miller of Granite City, in honor of the birth of their son, Ian Paul, who arrived at 9:44 a.m. Jan. 2. Ian weighed 8 pounds, 11 ounces, and was 22 inches at birth.

The Millers enjoyed a steak and champagne dinner before going home. Ian also received a cap, which was handknit by the Christian Hospital Auxiliary, and a "Port of Entry — Christian Hospital" T-shirt. The dinner and these gifts are given to the family of each baby born at the hospital.

During 1988, 1,621 babies were delivered at Christian Hospital's Northwest division, an 18 percent increase over 1987.

Christian Hospital Northeast-Northwest is a two-division, 728-bed regional health-care facility. It is part of the Christian Health System, which includes four affiliated health-care companies, 10 hospital sites and four nursing facilities in Missouri and Illinois.

Hospital bills fluctuate in area

The average billed charge for a hospital stay in the metropolitan St. Louis area in 1987 was up 15 percent over the same period for 1986, according to a claims study by the St. Louis Area Business Health Coalition.

The average retail billed charge for a hospital stay has nearly doubled in five years for the 38 companies in the coalition, the study found.

The finding makes no adjustment for any change in the type or severity of hospital stays from one year to the next, or for advancing technology.

The study — the most recent of its type — was based on 40,000 area admissions for 1987, which accounts for about 17 percent of all non-government paid hospitalizations in St. Louis.

This is the fifth consecutive year the coalition has collected hospital claims information, providing a comprehensive resource for evaluating trends in hospital utilization and charges over this time period.

The coalition's 38 employers represent more than 367,000 employees and dependents living in the St. Louis area.

The group was organized in 1982 to "develop and implement programs that would create a more competitive health care industry and thus help contain health care costs while maintaining health care quality" in the St. Louis area.

Data from the 1987 claims study reflect only the charges and length of stay for inpatient services and are not an indication of the quality of care delivered by the respective institutions, a coalition spokesman said.

According to the spokesman, when 1987 results are compared to 1986 for all hospitalizations, regardless of the size of the charge for the stay or length of stay, the major study findings are:

•The total average charge in the study, excluding physicians' fees, for a hospital stay in St. Louis was $5,539, up 15.4 percent from 1986.

That figure includes an 18.7 percent hike in ancillary charges, the cost of X-rays, lab tests, medications, etc., and a 10.1 percent increase in room and board charges. The ancillary charge per admission in 1987 was $3,510; the average room and board charge for a stay was $2,029.

•The rate of hospital admissions per year for the sample population declined 6 percent, to 81 per 1,000 covered individuals in 1987 from 86 in 1986.

Since 1983, the rate of admission has dropped 39 percent — from 132 to 81 per 1,000 covered individuals.

•The overall rate of admission for covered individuals in the study was consistent with the national average. But rates of inpatient hospital use for treatment of mental illness and treatment of circulatory disorders were substantially above the national average.

Stays for treatment of mental illness were 112 percent above the national average; stays for treatment of circulatory disorders, primarily diseases affecting the heart and blood-circulating system, were 39 percent above the national average. National averages are based on the National Hospital Discharge Survey for employed populations.

•Days of hospital care per 1,000 individuals dropped 6 percent between 1986 and 1987, declining from 638 days to 600. The decrease during the last four years was 30 percent, dropping from 862 days to 600 days.

•The average length of a hospital stay remained constant at 7.4 days from 1986 to 1987.

In order to compare one hospital with another, cases that had an extraordinarily long length of stay or unusually high charges were removed from the data collected before comparisons were made in the study, the coalition said.

The study found that average charges at area hospitals ranged from 29 percent below the average St. Louis charge to 35 percent above the local average among hospitals with at least 100 admissions.

The 10 area hospitals whose charges were below the St. Louis average for their mix of admissions were: Hospital, Maryville, Ill., 29 percent below.

•Sullivan (Mo.) Community Hospital, 25 percent below.

•Alton Memorial, Alton, 15 percent below.

•St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville, 12 percent below.

•Memorial Hospital, Belleville, 8 percent below.

•Missouri Baptist Hospital, St. Louis County, 5 percent below.

Venice students honor King with birthday program

Fulfilling his dream, students at Venice Grade School honored the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. last week in observance of his birthday.

Seth Kirkpatrick, principal of the school, welcomed the children and parents to the program and music teacher Lori Arons accompanied the children during the afternoon event.

Singing, choral readings and traditional musical selections filled the gymnasium Friday as the kindergarten through sixth grades performed.

At the conclusion of the program, Superintendent of Schools Charles McCaskill and Venice School Board President Wilbert Glasper addressed the students and audience about the significance and importance of remembering the slain civil rights leader.

DR. KING'S PICTURE is held by third graders Corlyn Washington and Yolanda Ross who are flanked by classmates Ashley Allen, left, holding a card with 1929 on it, the year Dr. King was born, and Justin Brown, right, holding a card with 1968 on it, the year Dr. King was assassinated.

Richardson, Destiny Williams, Latrisha Smith and Preston Brown. Other students sang the chorus of the song.

ANNIE LYONS, a sixth-grade student, reads the eulogy given by Benjamin E. May at the funeral of Dr. King in 1968.

ANDRE BOYD, a kindergarten student, gives his all as he sings "I Woke Up This Morning" with his classmates. His class opened the birthday program.

SIXTH-GRADER Kenneth Johnson presents a reading during the Venice Grade School program honoring Dr. King. The civil rights leader would have been 60 years old Sunday. A federal holiday was observed Monday in his honor.

Fame has its down side

Such is the Nature of Fame Department: Mary Lou Retton, darling of America for her gymnastic exploits in the 1984 Olympics, is being dumped from her job as spokesperson for the bowling industry.

Reason? She has been gaining weight steadily since her solid-gold Olympic days. She has gone beyond being shaped like a bowling pin and has begun to resemble a bowling ball.

Bowling moguls apparently are firing her because they want to promote the idea of bowling as a healthful form of exercise. You've got to wonder about those bowling kingpins. Don't they spend any time at bowling alleys? Haven't they noticed that most bowlers are not exactly slim, trim specimens?

Haven't they noticed that there's a lot more beer than Gatorade consumed at bowling alleys?

The only reason I mention Her Rotundity is because the news of her dumping dovetails nicely with the topic I had in mind for today.

Fame. Mary Lou Retton was famous and her fame got her a nice gig, which kept her in cheeseburgers and pizza. The cheeseburgers and pizza got her fat. So, on some level, Mary Lou's fame contained the seeds of her firing.

Some people will go to ridiculous and desperate lengths to achieve fame and keep it. Yet, often, after a time they find it doesn't give them what they had imagined it would.

There's a new magazine devoted to the concept of fame. In fact, that is its name—Fame. The monthly magazine debuted last November. It is devoted to documenting the lives of the famous.

Andy Warhol, the artist and a man known mostly for his famousness, once said famously, "In the future, everyone will be famous for 15 minutes."

So I called Fame's New York headquarters to see if its 15 minutes was up. Nope, I was assured, the magazine is still in business.

Anyway, I read most of the premiere issue, and naturally it got me to thinking about the nature of fame, its many varieties and why people want it so.

Widespread fame is a relatively recent invention. An essayist in the magazine claimed that during the Middle Ages the average person met no more than 100 people in a lifetime. You might be a relatively famous fish, but the pond was pretty small. Barely enough room to make a splash, you might say. The opportunity to become really famous was limited to very few—monarchs and Popes mostly.

Moreover, people who had never actually met the famous had no way of recognizing them until the invention of photography. George Washington, for example, could have gone slumming and not attracted any attention except for his size and weird smile.

By contrast, Abraham Lincoln was widely mourned at least in part because the photograph of him by Matthew Brady was widely reproduced. Television and the movies have further increased the possibilities for fame.

But fame has its price. Once the media machine gets its hooks into you, you are forever a legitimate target. Your every misstep becomes news by virtue of your one-time fame even if you have ceased to benefit by your celebrity. Witness the countless former athletes whose names only surface again when they have run-ins with the law.

Another drawback to becoming famous: We mentioned Lincoln. It has long been speculated that many assassins are motivated by a desire for fame. Kill the famous and become famous yourself, could be their warped logic.

Mark David Chapman got his 15 minutes by killing the famous John Lennon.

John Hinckley Jr. has admitted that he was trying to catch the eye of Jodie Foster by trying to assassinate Ronald Reagan. (A tasteless joke has Reagan asking Hinckley afterward, "Did you know that Fritz Mondale has been seeing Jodie Foster?")

Maybe he would-be famous should harken to the words of Louis Armstrong, who grumbled, "You know, you don't have no fun at all if you get too famous."

Late in his life, the writer Truman Capote said being famous makes one a turtle. "Everybody is picking at the turtle... and he can't defend himself.... All (fame) means is that you can cash a small check in a small town."

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes people criticize juries for returning verdicts in excess of one million dollars. The public is often quick to point out that most workers do not make this much money in their lifetime. Therefore, many feel that even a person who is totally incapacitated as a result of someone else's negligence should not be awarded these large sums of money. However, it is important to note that juries consider more than lost earnings when awarding sums of money. A recent case will help illustrate the things which are considered by a jury in these situations.

In this matter, the plaintiff was an interstate truck driver who was involved in an accident when his trailer brakes failed. The vehicle he was driving crashed into a canyon wall in Utah. He suffered from multiple injuries, including the amputation of his right leg. He and his wife eventually brought suit against the trucking company that employed him as well as against the company that serviced and inspected the trailer for his employer.

The jury returned a verdict of $1,320,000 for the husband and a verdict of $880,000 for his wife for the loss of the cooperation, affection and companionship of her husband. The question arose on appeal as to whether the amount of the jury verdict was excessive. The test used when examining a verdict is whether or not the total amount of the verdict falls within the limits of fair and reasonable compensation or is so large as to shock the judicial conscience.

The Appellate Court in this case upheld the amount of the verdict. The evidence apparently established that the driver's actual monetary damages included medical expenses of $28,000, future medical expenses of $25,000, and past and future loss of earnings of $551,000. The Court noted that he had suffered fractures of both legs and eventually had his right leg amputated. In addition, he had a fractured clavicle which left him disfigured and impaired the function of his shoulders. It was noted that many of these conditions would worsen, and none of the conditions was expected to improve.

The Court also noted that before the accident, the plaintiff enjoyed such activities as dancing, fishing, camping, and hunting. He no longer could engage in these activities after the accident. Because his quality of life had been affected as well as his earning potential, the Appellate Court felt that the amount of the verdict was reasonable.

Mangiaracino

Elizabeth B. (Svoboda) Mangiaracino, 75, of Topeka, Kan., formerly of Granite City, died at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 18, 1989, at St. Francis Hospital in Topeka. She had been hospitalized one day after suffering a stroke.

Born March 17, 1913, in Granite City, Mrs. Mangiaracino lived here for 74 years. She was a homemaker and a member of the former St. Joseph's parish.

Preceded in death July 9, 1987, by her husband, John T. Mangiaracino, she is survived by two sons, John Mangiaracino of Valley Falls, Kan., and Larry Mangiaracino of St. George, Kan.; a daughter, Karen Brubaker of Topeka; and 12 grandchildren.

Wal-Mart

Avenue edge of the complex to allow for development of restaurants or other commercial entities, said Ortbas.

The site is located in a tax increment financing (TIF) district, established by the city in 1986 for the purpose of redeveloping the downtown area.

Under the TIF concept, sales and property taxes generated from new development are placed into a fund that helps support the cost of the investor. The TIF district expires in the year 2009, at which time local taxing bodies would receive their full new levels of funding, Ortbas said.

East Peoria used a TIF district to lure not only a Wal-Mart, but a Kroger grocery, several strip shopping centers, a senior citizen complex and a hospital, among many others. Granite City leaders visited that community two years ago, and two of them were noticeably impressed upon their return Wednesday. "This has got me enthused all over again," said Cruse.

Ortbas said Granite City will need to spend about $10 million to finance acquisitions, but the exact source of funding remains a question.

He said he will meet with a representative of the Illinois Development Finance Authority next week to discuss borrowing from a loan pool of about $585 million. Such a loan would have to be against a city bond issue, with the bonds paid back over a 20-year period, he said.

But if a Wal-Mart is enticed into the downtown area the investment cost by the city could be paid back in a five to six-year period, Ortbas estimated.

ney, brick tuckpointing, front porch steps, exposed front porch steps, second floor porch steps, decks and banisters need repair; there are exposed electric wires; loose brick on rear porch wall, the paint trim, rain gutters and downspouts need repair."

The building at 2318 Illinois is vacant now, because the electricity was turned off.

On Dec. 7, Electrical Inspector Stephen Sexton inspected the property and, based on the number and severity of the violations found, gave the owner, Ruth Ray of Granite City, 30 days to make the necessary repairs or he would have the electricity disconnected.

She didn't, it was.

Sexton also inspected 2005-07 Missouri on Dec. 7. The owner, listed as Paul Bryant of Steelville, Ill., was also given the 30-day ultimatum.

The electricity there was still on last week.

"Paul doesn't own it anymore," a resident said. "There's a new guy named John. I can't remember his last name. He said he was going to fix the electricity and have it re-inspected."

Sometimes laws are necessary to protect people from themselves, 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney believes. He has kept the pressure of city government on both buildings for more than a year.

"It's not so much the adults; you could say they live that way because they made a choice," Partney said.

Partney said he made sure some of the residents of 2318 Illinois got into Kirkpatrick Homes and that he always offers to help residents find a new place to live.

"There were three little kids living on the third floor of 2318 Illinois — three little kids who might well have burned up in a fire there someday," Partney said.

In combination with the City, Lahey a half-block away, the facilities will provide information and action centers for municipal, state and federal matters.

Cruse said a notice of intent described the Granite City office as "the first in the history of this (Illinois 21st) Congressional district."

The mayor said the office will greatly increase the availability of Costello and his staff to local residents.

"The move is being seen as a key to the future development of the Charles Melvin Price Support Center and the Granite City area," Cruse said.

"I think it shows that Jerry Costello believes in the future of Granite City, believes in the things my administration is doing, and is serious about helping us achieve our goals for the future," he said.

There are indications that Costello will assign his chief district administrator, Terry Beach, to the new office, where the staff is expected to total four persons.

Costello has said he plans an office in each of the district's counties.

Steel firm finds home, hopes to be best in U.S.

Granite City Ambassadors such as Dr. Al Tran already are talking about how to celebrate their city's 100th birthday in 1996.

Even closer is 1992, the centennial of the Niedringhaus family's acquisition of 3,500 acres here.

The 1982 purchase led to the development of engineering plans for a new city. The municipal plan was filed on May 20, 1983, and incorporation occurred on March 9, 1986.

BECAUSE THE BROTHERS who founded Granite City were named William and Frederick, I've named William Frederick. I've always taken an interest in the history of their city (where I was born) and of their 1886-vintage industry, which evolved into Granite City Steel. (My brother and brother-in-law are now retired after long careers at GC Steel.)

Now the Granite City Division of National Steel Corporation is making a further bit of history.

Page advertisements this month in the Press-Record-Journal proclaimed that "America's first 100 percent continuous-cast steel company is here to stay."

THE $140 MILLION investment announced Jan. 10, financing a second continuous cast here and the corporation's fourth, will enable National in December 1990 to become America's first major steel producer with 100 percent continuous-cast capacity, compared to the domestic average of 80 percent.

As the corporation sees it, such technology is the most modern in the world today. "It provides our customers with the quality and chemical uniformity they expect."

Most importantly, the new caster at Granite City represents a commitment to the (St. Louis) Metro East area we call our home. A commitment to 3,500 employees at Granite City we depend on. A commitment to becoming the most competitive steel company in America."

THIS IS TERRIFIC news from a company that around 1980

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winter

began losing money by the hundreds of millions of dollars. Many nations, including Third World countries, began producing low-cost steel, aided by relatively new plants and much lower wages than are paid in America.

It was difficult competition, but National Steel began the long battle toward regaining full worldwide competitiveness—not only cost, but quality and dependability and flexibility and adaptability.

A 1984 EPISODE almost crushed local hopes. United States Steel had begun closing down many of its plants. Suddenly, our Feb. 2 issue announced an agreement in principle for sale of all of National's steel facilities to U.S. Steel.

Correctly or incorrectly, many local residents concluded that the local plant's days were numbered. Its long history appeared to be a negative factor, not a positive aspect.

The phrase, "Midwestern rust belt," began to take on a new and agonizing meaning. Had this community and its chief industry outlived their usefulness?

HOW DO YOU SPELL relief?

Later in 1984, many Granite Citizens sighed with relief when they learned that the projected sale had fallen through. Rightly or wrongly, they wanted no connection with U.S. Steel.

Soon, we were able to publish the headline, "Expert predicts long future for GC Steel." After all, portions of the mammoth local plant were old, but it also had been kept modern by a frequent series of gigantic financial investments.

COST PARING continued to be imperative.

Job security has now been assured in the workers' contract, but the work force has been reduced through attrition, lowering the cost per ton so that profits can be pursued.

Perfection probably has not been attained, but the staff is paying close attention to customers' needs and wishes—a policy closely related to success no matter what the enterprise—baking doughnuts or making steel coils.

Despite staff cuts, National Steel still is a major company, with 12,000 employees. Its shipments in 1987 amounted to nearly 5 million tons, and its sales exceeded $2.4 billion.

THERE IS NO WAY to peer into the future with any degree of accuracy, of course.

But the best assurance that National Steel truly has "found a home" in Granite City might well be the degree to which it achieves its best-in-America goal.

It's easy for an outsider to say, but I think that if all 3,500 Granite City Steelers dedicate themselves to such objectives as "first" and "best" it can and will happen, in this century or early in the next.

Trash increasingly important

What happens to all those empty cans, potato peelings and snack bags every week? The trash men take them, of course.

But suppose the trash just sat because there was no place to take it? That's a distasteful proposition, but it's one that hovers nationwide, while community leaders scramble for that most precious of all commodities, landfill space.

Madison County is no different. But let's examine why the problem exists, by narrowing it down a little. Suppose there was a Joe Jackson and he lived over on 27th Street. He's a typical homeowner with kids and a dog. Every summer weekend he rakes the yard, gathers up all the limbs and dead grass and pitches them in the trash. He leaves it for the refuse workers to haul away. He also does the same with his aluminum beer cans, his glass containers and his plastic wrappers.

But rather than sort them out, good ol' Joe throws them all in the same hefty bag and leaves them. Why should he care what happens to them when they leave his curb side?

The answer, unfortunately, is that one day, without some careful presorting, that trash might not leave his curb.

That's one of many messages county officials have been trying to spread during the last few years. They hope to increase public knowledge about our shrinking landfills and what goes into them.

At a meeting last week in Edwardsville, municipal and township governments were told they would have to take responsibility for developing and implementing a solid waste management plan. At the same time Madison County government is working to come up with guidelines and solutions to the long-range problem, according to Madison County Board member Dick Worthen, D-Alton.

While the county has never been involved in ordinary trash collection or disposal, it is the appropriate body to help develop an overall plan, which will include inspecting landfills, enforcing laws and serving as a sounding board for all towns within its borders.

Worthen, who chairs the county's environmental control committee and its solid waste task force, said there are several new state regulations that will affect every person in Illinois.

Each county with more than 100,000 people must develop a solid waste management plan.

By 1991 counties are required to be recycling 15 percent of all solid wastes. The percentage increases to 25 percent by 1994.

State landfills will not be able to accept refuse loads that are primarily lawn refuse (grass clippings, etc.) beginning in September. All lawn waste will be banned from landfills in 1990. Locally, a composting program is being studied.

Because of some foresight, Madison, Monroe and St. Clair counties are ahead of others in the state. In Madison, a "solid waste coordinator" will be appointed soon and will be able to help local governments develop plans and apply for recycling grants.

Inasmuch as each of us is the problem, we are also the solution. By adjusting our recycling habits, we can provide part of the desperately needed cure. You might want to start separating that paper, glass, plastic and metal now. You'll have to do it later. You might as well get used to it.

Trash certainly does provide food for thought, doesn't it?

Everyone could be a winner

Columbia-Waterloo was proposed in the mid-1970s as the site of a mammoth, "state-of-the-art," world-class airport. It wasn't built and won't be built, partly due to opposition by backers of the existing St. Louis airport who felt there was plenty of life left in Lambert. They were right.

However, the proposal for joint civilian-military use of Scott Air Force Base is a much different proposal and ought to be viewed differently. Everyone could "win."

The Citizens' Committee for Scott Joint Use, P.O. Box 8166, Belleville 62222, now recruiting members, calls joint use a "common-sense partnership" between two adjacent but distinct airport operations at Scott.

It could be a synergistic link, each making the other more versatile and cost-effective. Their main, parallel runways (one of which would need to be built) would be 7,000 feet apart. The Air Force and civilian airport could and would share some of the programs and costs, such as maintenance, equipment and air traffic control.

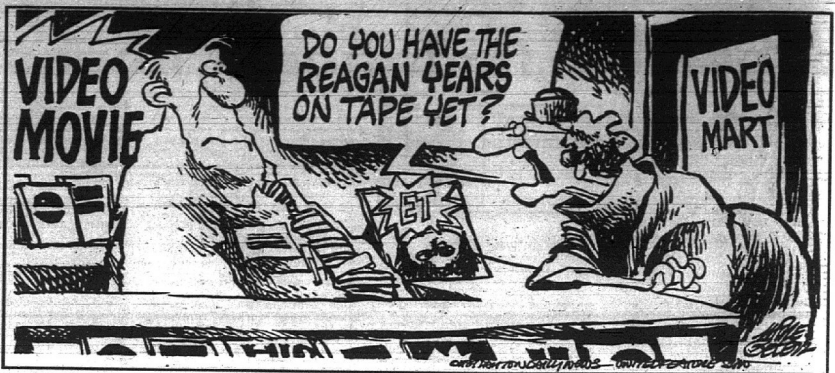

It would also be a "common-sense partnership" for Lambert, whose parallel runways are too close to each other, sharply limiting takeoffs and landings during adverse weather. Despite that unsolvable constraint, Lambert has been able to double its passenger volume in this decade with the help of expanded facilities, such as added arrival and departure gates.

That success and a projected further doubling of activity make it clear that a new airport must be established as a supplement to Lambert; seven of the busiest in United States air travel centers are served by at least two airports. The others are Denver, Atlanta, which has a giant airport; and St. Louis.

Scott would only supplement, never replace Lambert. It could be of much assistance on days when the weather is unusually severe. And along with Lambert, it could help the bi-state St. Louis area avoid losing out economically due to future, preventable air-travel congestion.

Making the picture even rosier, the impact of Scott joint-use on the environment and on residential and commercial areas would be almost non-existent. It could be started in the near future, so that it would be ready when needed. And its price tag of about $200 million is a breathtaking bargain, compared to the billions of dollars a brand new airport would cost.

Social Security funds hide deficit

To the editor:

If you think the federal government's deficit is bad, let me assure you that it is actually worse than it appears to be.

The budget is deceptive because we include Social Security funds in the budget, a move made when the financial pressure from the Vietnam War made the deficit grow — and the nation's leadership wanted to "solve" the deficit problem without doing what Harry Truman had us do during the Korean War: Increase taxes to pay for the war.

The nation came through the Korean War with almost no increase in the deficit and almost no increase in inflation. It was a great tribute to President Truman and his staff.

But during the Vietnam War President Johnson accepted some bad advice: Pull Social Security trust funds into the budget, and the deficit won't look that bad, and we won't have to increase taxes to pay for the war. It is a decision the nation is paying for to this day.

Formal estimates suggest we face a federal government deficit of $148 billion for fiscal year 1989. But that figure is deceptive. The Social Security funds have a temporary surplus for the year of $52 billion, meaning that the real deficit is $199 billion if the Social Security funds are not counted.

funds are not counted.

The danger of including Social Security in the budget figures is that we fool ourselves into believing the situation is better than it is. And then the temptation is to "solve" the deficit problem by cutting back on Social Security benefits.

Social Security should be taken away from the budget, so that we have a clear look at what we are doing. And so that we are not tempted to take from the Social Security funds in order to balance the budget temporarily, funds that will be needed to pay retirement benefits in years to come.

The Social Security part of the budget also fools us into believing we are spending less for interest than we are. Budget figures indicate we will be spending $163 billion for interest this fiscal year. Actually that is what the book-jugglers call the "net interest payment." They deduct the interest earned by Social Security before announcing the interest costs, a practice that is both deceptive and dangerous.

The real interest payment by the federal government this fiscal year is called the "gross interest payment," or $234 billion. The fastest growing item in the budget is interest, and it is only one way to change that: Stop piling up more and more debt.

Letter from the Editor

A letter from a pal

Dear George:

Congratulations on your promotion and best of luck in the coming four years. I would have written sooner but I've been damn busy, what with working two jobs just to feed the kids.

I guess yes, these are certainly good times. I've listened to your predecessor for the last eight years, and watched Death Valley Days before that, so I know these really are the best years of our lives.

You probably don't want any advice, but I'll give it anyway. Regarding this Gadafli fellow (Qaddafi? Khaddafi? Goofy?), wouldn't it be easier on Mediterranean relations just to sit down at the same table with the man and talk peace? Perhaps a neutral site. Or at least a nice, new building. I hear they've just built this pharmaceutical plant, and that might make a good setting.

Oh yes, about this budget deficit. I have a good recommendation. Do like me and my wife. Give up eating every third day. It not only is good for saving money, but great for the figure. I see, too, that you also like to go fishing, and I particularly enjoyed the way you fooled those news hounds by holding up that fake fish the other day. Great joke, George, and I plan to use that one on my next vacation.

People have said you're a wramp, but I like it. I also like that. After all, anybody who can tell a room full of veterans that Pearl Harbor Day is Sept. 7 really has got to have guts, in my opinion.

You also appear to be a family man. I like that. I also like your wife, Barbara. She's really onto something with that literacy campaign. Could you get her to proof this letter when you're done? I'd appreciate hearing her critique.

And how about that business scene? Frankly, I'm concerned. There seems to be an awful lot of foreign takeovers lately. Is there anything you can do? I wouldn't have asked but there's been this sheik running around the office lately and he's got me worried.

Well, George, Jan. 20 is really going to be your big day, huh? Don't party too much and remember to get home in time for the Super Bowl. Just sorry the Redskins didn't make it.

Your pal, DG

Dreamer's vision still lives on

To the editor:

Once again the people of this great nation and around the world observed the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Yes, the dreamer is gone, but his dream still lives on. Evil killed the dreamer but did not stop his dream.

The struggle for justice is still being fought. We are still singing "We Shall Overcome." The sin of racial prejudice still grips the heart of some people; yet, the dream lives on.

Black people have come a long way since April 4, 1968, when Martin was shot down in Memphis, Tenn. In spite of segregation by people who can't stand the color of a man's skin, we dream on.

It was his dream that this nation would someday rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed — that all men are created equal. They shot the dreamer but not the dream.

Twenty years later we are still striving toward freedom. We are still climbing the rough side of the mountain. We cannot turn around because his dream must become a reality.

The dream says the color of one's skin does not have to change to have doors opened to him. The dream says that all people were created equal and have a right to be free from oppression. His dream is being fulfilled.

As we continue to go forward by faith and the grace of God, the dream is forever present in our minds. The love of God that he shared with his fellow men is yet alive and burning in our hearts.

We will always remember the dreamer, as God continues to make his dream a reality.

Aldermen knew what job paid

To the editor:

Regarding the raises to be given to the aldermen, mayor, city clerk and city treasurer, I say these people when they decided to run for the office knew what the job paid. They spent much money to win the election for this job.

Now the aldermen are asking the salary be doubled and the other offices to be raised thousands of dollars.

I say that if these people aren't satisfied with the present salary, they should resign now. I'm sure we can elect others as capable as the ones that are now holding these offices and for the present pay.

Alderman Skubish voted "no" on both the aldermanic and other city officials' raises. We voters will remember him at election time.

Area's economy should post modest gains throughout '89

By Roger McGrath
Staff affiliate

This metropolitan area's economy will be healthy this year, but not robust, posting only modest gains in employment, local economic forecasters predict.

"Overall employment growth is expected to be slower, maybe 1 percent," says Russ Signorino, a labor analyst with the Missouri Department of Employment Security.

Signorino says the modest increase in the number of jobs, now 1.2 million in the metro area, will be distributed across the economy.

Andrew Rutman, manager of forecasting for Southwestern Bell Telephone, predicts employment increases of 1 percent in both the manufacturing and non-manufacturing, or service, sectors.

"In my opinion, St. Louis still looks strong; everything looks positive for 1989 and 1990," Rutman says. "Nothing is gangbusters, but in Missouri it never is."

Don Phares, professor of economics and public policy at the University of Missouri-St. Louis, says most indicators are that St. Louis is doing reasonably well. "Our economy tends to be driven by what goes on nationally," he says.

The St. Louis metropolitan area is the nation's No. 2 auto manufacturing center, with Chrysler, Ford and General Motors having plants.

Defense companies also play a strong role here.

The economy is shifting from one based on manufacturing to one based on services, the experts say.

"The St. Louis area is well diversified, which means we tend to move less than the national average," says Stanford Levin, chairman of the economics department at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. "We don't boom in the good times; we don't bust in the bad. That's good, over the long haul."

For 1989, the consensus is that the national economy will grow 2.5 percent, down a bit from last year's 2.7 percent advance.

"We see the economy close to full employment," says Chris Varvares, an economist with Laurence H. Meyer and Associates, a local forecasting firm.

Couple "full employment" with a continuing drop in the rate of increase in productivity — Meyer forecasts a 1 percent improvement, a half-point drop from what he calls too much tightening of the money supply by the Federal Reserve Bank.

St. Louis posted strong employment gains in early 1988, when the local jobs rate plunged from more than 8 percent into the 6-percent range.

Further gains were minimal, however, and the unemployment rate was 6.3 percent at year's end, nearly a point higher than the nation, Signorino says.

Rutman points out that the local economy created 70,000 jobs in the last three years, including 7,000 at McDonnell Douglas Corp., the result of the defense build-up.

East Coast and West Coast economies, however, are pumping out jobs "at a faster rate," he says.

Rutman predicts housing starts will total 20,000 for each of the next two years, equal to the 1988 pace.

Lambert-St. Louis International Airport will maintain its $2 billion in economic activity in 1989, and tourism will benefit from low gasoline prices, Rutman says.

And then there's the convention business. "They are just an injection of money from the outside. Conventions really shoot up the economy," Rutman says.

The clouds Rutman sees on the local economic horizon are:

"The oversupply of office space downtown. At 1 million square feet, the recently opened Metropolitan Square will take about five years to fill up.

"The rise in gasoline prices since the shutdown of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided to curtail production.

"Climbing interest rates post a threat to home building. Rutman forecasts a slight interest increase but insists it won't hurt home building.

Varvares also forecasts climbing interest rates this spring, but a decline later in the year, the result of the slowing economy.

Local companies might be 'tempting takeover targets'

By Roger McGrath

Takeovers were the rage on Wall Street last year and one local outfit, Interco Inc., was swept into the vortex.

Other local companies also make tempting targets, local stock analysts say.

The stocks of May Department Stores Co. and Anheuser-Busch are interesting to investors, they are pushed upward by takeover rumors in the past.

Monsanto Co., would be too high priced for a United States — but not a European — takeover specialist, says David Balloun Jones Jr. of St. Louis Investment Advisors.

According to Jones, other potential takeover candidates are:

•Laclede Steel Co. A Canadian group already owns a big chunk of the stock.

•Mercantile Bancorp. Banks in Tennessee and Chicago reportedly are interested in St. Louis.

Second-biggest bank company. The company's book value is about $30 a share, which is determined by dividing the company's assets by the number of shares of stock.

Based on this, a good takeover price (at the traditional 1.4 times book value) would be $40.

The stock closed 1988 at $30.

•Ralston Purina Co. The food marketer's stock closed 1988 at $15, but the equity divisions could be sold for about $150 a share, according to Wall Street.

Homeowner must beg to avoid foreclosure

Dear Mr. Campbell:

I would like a list of options on how to stop property from going into foreclosure. Also, I would like to possibly cut in half my current $1,000 mortgage payment until my financial situation improves. This is an urgent question because every day I am getting further and further behind. The situation was caused when I got a divorce and relocated.

R.F.

Answer: I hate to be the one to tell you, but there is only one path open to you — go to your lender and tell him what you have told me. You have got to be very cooperative in this confrontation because what you are actually asking him to do is refinance your mortgage for a longer term in order to reduce your monthly payments.

If you are flat broke today, your lender will ask, "Why should I assume you won't be equally flat broke tomorrow?" You have to marshal all of the arguments that you possibly can that this is a temporary situation and, somehow, make it convincing with evidence from your employer, for instance, that your prospects with the company are bright. A marital separation on top of a physical relocation, frankly, are a couple of near-lethal changes in your financial picture that will give any lender cause for concern.

Approach him in a businesslike way and say: "Look, here's my situation and it's not a pretty one, but it's temporary and your company will be better served taking a chance on me for a while than it would be foreclosing and ending up with a non-producing piece of real estate on your hands."

After that, cross your fingers.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

Due to circumstances beyond his control, my son a year ago came to work in California from Wisconsin. His wife and daughter had to stay in Wisconsin in order to try to secure their 40-acre farm where they have lived for 11 years.

His family is going to go through another winter and his wife feels this is the last winter she can cope with being alone. What can he do with this property? Have his family live out the equity and let the mortgage company take it back, or rent it out? Being 2,000 miles away, it's not possible to keep track of what was happening.

Is there such a thing as a real estate company that would look after it, renting it and the like, while they are trying to sell it? Would there be a high fee for this if it is possible?

Answer: No, they don't want to "give it back" to the lender. If the real estate market is as soft as it seems to be I would guess that there is not a prayer that the lender would give them a "deed in lieu of foreclosure" — the only halfway graceful way out of such a situation.

Your daughter-in-law should scout around and find a good, reliable, real estate firm that also takes on property management work and will work both sides of the fence — trying to sell it, but, at the same time, finding renters, arranging for a necessary maintenance and contracting for necessary repairs.

Gateway BPW to begin recruitment drive

The Gateway Business and Professional Women will open the new year with a dinner meeting on Jan. 25 at Chateau Restaurant, said Dorothy Elmore, BPW president.

The theme for the year will be "New Beginnings — Recruitment '89."

Dinner chairman Debbie Geggus has completed arrangements for Pat Taylor, second vice president of the national BPW, and Betty Kelley, state retention chairman, to attend as guest speakers. They will discuss benefits and options offered working women and members of the BPW organization.

Another feature of the session will be a candlelight initiation ceremony and special recognition to area business places and their employees, Elmore said.

Dinner reservations may be made by contacting Geggus at 877-6385. Prospective members are invited to attend the informative meeting and learn the basic principles of BPW. Reservations must be made no later than Jan. 23.

Navy indefinitely suspends subsidiary of Emerson Electric

WASHINGTON — The Navy on Jan. 12 indefinitely suspended a New York subsidiary of Emerson Electric Co. from doing business with the federal government while legal proceedings are pending against the subsidiary.

Hazeltine Corp. of Greenlawn, Long Island, pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges the previous week and agreed to pay nearly $2 million in fines and court costs.

The charges are part of the widening Pentagon procurement scandal dubbed "Operation Ill Wind" by federal investigators.

Hazeltine is the third defense firm to be suspended in the case.

Beware of business opportunity scams

By Neil F. Hartigan
Illinois Attorney General

I recently read an ad in the newspaper for a business opportunity with a minimal investment. Is this a legitimate business opportunity?

A. Probably not. The classic business opportunity swindle unfolds this way: The con man places ads filled with glowing promises.

Potential investors are invited to call a toll-free number for more information and application forms. Once the investor expresses interest, a meeting is arranged at a nearby motel where the con man promises prompt delivery, high-quality merchandise, low costs, untapped markets, and minimal risk of loss.

The investor gives his money to the con man and leaves with a slick catalog book and an order form.

The con man leaves town and supplies the investor with a small amount of overpriced, shoddy merchandise and none of the promised advice and assistance.

Business opportunity swindles strip tens of thousands of investors each year of $500 million.

These scams run from a few hundred dollars for an overpriced start-up inventory of industrial-strength cleanser to a $12,000 equity investment in a money-losing car wash or a non-existent franchise chain.

A business opportunity offering can involve just about anything, but often includes a substantial initial payment which the investor is required to invest in a supplier company in exchange for a supply of inventory and a promise of assistance.

A franchise agreement involves an apparent company (the franchisor) and the franchisee (independent businessman).

Under a typical franchise agreement, the franchisor, who has developed a product or service and a recognizable trade name, contracts with the franchisee to provide start-up assistance, and the right to sell the franchisor's product or service under a uniform marketing and quality control plan.

Investors considering a franchise should be wary of high-pressure sales tactics, promises of sky-high profits, claims of minimal risks, unjustified start-up costs, and evasive answers or failure to disclose information.

Be sure to check out the product, size up the market, analyze the competition, determine all restrictions, find out the level of assistance, get names of investors and franchise owners, and check out their background. Check with our office regarding franchise laws in Illinois.

Q. Someone came to my door offering to check out our furnace for the winter months. We live in a small town and have never had anyone come to our door offering this service. How can we tell if these people are legitimate businessmen?

A. Consumers considering having their furnaces cleaned and inspected should determine the look-out for possible furnace frauds. One way to avoid these unscrupulous individuals is to deal with local heating companies.

As a homeowner, you should be particularly aware of heating companies that solicit door-to-door, leaving fliers that offer to clean and inspect furnaces for low prices. Usually upon completion of furnace inspection, these unscrupulous service men claim the heat exchanger is cracked and leak gas, which could explode or poison those inside the home.

Such scare tactics are often enough to pressure the homeowner into a hasty decision to replace the unit.

Once the homeowner signs the contract, the company will replace the furnace immediately, thereby removing the evidence. In some cases, defective units have been resold as new or rebuilt furnaces.

Some service men use extreme, high-pressure sales tactics. For example, service men urged that major repairs be done immediately. In such cases, repairs would cost considerably more in the near future. Some furnace companies simply use the cleaning service to get into homes in order to sell consumers expensive replacement parts and repairs.

When such door-to-door solicitation occurs, contact your local Attorney General's Office.

LOCAL DEALER HONORED: A heating and air-conditioning dealer, American Home Service Co. Inc., 1524 Pontoon Road, Granite City, was honored by Lennox Industries Inc. at the annual Lennox dealers' meeting in Chicago. American Home Service was recognized for a 25 percent increase in business during 1988. Mark Newkirk, right, accepted the service award from Jim Damiani, sales manager of Lennox Midwest Division.

KEVIN KLINE and Susan Sarandon star in 'The January Man.'

'January Man' ordinary despite cast

Screenwriter John Patrick Shanley's light touch — so much in evidence in his Academy Award-winning script for "Moonstruck" — is rarely in evidence in "The January Man" (R), the story of a serial killer on the loose in New York City.

In fairness, the story of an elusive mass murderer who ties several sailor's knots around the necks of 11 unsuspecting women in less than a year, is not a subject fit for unbridled humor.

But with Shanley's name on the scenario and people like Kevin Kline, Harvey Keitel, Danny Aiello, Susan Sarandon and Rod Steiger appearing in it, "The January Man" should amount to more than ordinary commercial idiosyncrasy.

The only scene that vaguely works comes at the end during an apartment house brawl between Kline and a cornered killer. But "The January Man" is an otherwise routine cop drama with a jagged pace, a touch of inelegant eroticism, a wildly improbable plot, and the kind of sustained, stupid dialogue any hack screenwriter could have hammered out in a couple of weeks.

Kline is Nick Starkey, a former supercop turned hippie firefighter who loves "listening to wine breathe," and once solved crimes on his computer.

Nick also loathes his police commissioner brother (Keitel) and at one point pours their estrangement in concrete by announcing that "mom always liked me best."

If that isn't enough to tick off a brother, Nick has coveted the commissioner's acidulous wife (Sarandon) whom he taunts by insisting that "you married the wrong man."

Steiger is the explosive, foul-mouthed New York mayor who looks like Archie Bunker and is being pressured by residents to bring in the killer.

Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio plays the mayor's daughter who sleeps with Nick when he isn't peering into his computer, and Shakespearean actor Alan Rickman is Nick's raffish portrait painter friend who, despite a woeful lack of training in police work, finds himself assisting Nick.

Aiello plays the abrasive police captain forced by the mayor to hire Nick and his pal and give them whatever they need to nail the killer.

Whatever "The January Man" has to do with human behavior, political corruption, and sensible police work was lost on me.

Once the dismal project was launched by producer Norman Jewison and director Pat O'Connor, the actors must have found themselves floundering in a sea of black comedy without a writer to throw them a rope.

Rated R (sex, language, violence). Running time: 98 minutes. Ratings based on four-star system.

Peking Opera performing in Chinese cultural fest

A Chinese Cultural Festival featuring the Peking Opera is being held through Jan. 25 in St. Louis County.

The festival, planned by the International Friendship Alliance of St. Louis County Inc., and the St. Louis County Executive Gene McNary.

The Peking Opera is making its first North American tour, performing in the style that evolved 200 years ago at the Peking Court of the Qing Dynasty.

The company of about 50 performers and its nine-member Chinese orchestra will appear in the production, with the performers acting singing, dancing and tumbling and juggling in a stylized drama.

As part of the festival, an authentic Dim Sum Brunch Buffet is planned from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. with a special showing of the opera from 1:15 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 22 at the Edison Theater.

The regular performances of the Peking Opera will begin at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Jan. 20 and Jan. 21 at the Edison Theater, 6485 Forsyth Blvd.

A special exhibit of Chinese wildlife, including giant salamanders, also planned at the St. Louis Zoo, zoo director Charles Hoessle said.

Future of American Theater questioned

Talks continue among the owners of the American Theater in downtown St. Louis and interested groups in both St. Louis and New York City concerning the future of the historic St. Louis showplace.

The American is the property of Charles Cella, the St. Louis businessman and real estate investor who owns Southern Real Estate & Financial Co., 705 Olive in downtown St. Louis.

A source close to the talks who asked not to be identified said the East Coast group is interested in purchasing, operating or booking the American and has the money to do it. But most of the St. Louis interests lack the financial clout to offer a meaningful commercial future for the theater, the source said.

The Muny has stopped using the American because the 1,353-seat capacity of the 70-year-old theater does not allow enough tickets to be sold to cover the cost of today's touring shows.

Pace Theatrical of New York City, a booking and producing firm, is seen as a likely prospect to "save" the American. However, Pace has a longstanding business relationship with The Muny that involves booking touring shows into St. Louis, and any effort by Pace to book independently at the American would constitute a conflict with The Muny that both parties would like to avoid.

Contemporary Productions, a local firm specializing in large-scale rock concerts and related presentations, also was mentioned as having shown interest in the American Theater.

Until some kind of bargain is struck, the American remains dark but not abandoned. Those who have visited the theater recently say it is being maintained and looks ready to reopen when the right opportunity comes along.

The economics of any saving solution for the American will have to come in the form of a collaborative effort among several entities, some of which will have to be locally based.

Boy with AIDS is Washington bound

By Rick Arnold
Staff affiliate

BELLEVILLE — Keith Croft, a 7-year-old Belleville boy with AIDS, hasn't had too many bright spots in his short life.

But one of his wishes will come true as he boards a plane, along with his mother and grandmother, to fly to Washington, D.C., where he will watch George Bush be inaugurated as the next president of the United States.

"He jumped up and down when I told him," his mother, Deena Croft, said. "He's so happy."

Keith attends Jefferson School. The family had asked that its last name not be used before for its own safety, but has since had a change of heart.

The trip is being made possible through the donations of local individuals and companies who contributed about $2,500 to cover the cost of air fare, lodging, transportation and incidental expenses.

Cornet Travel of Clayton provided the lodging, while TV station KTVI (Channel 2) paid for the air fare, since TV reporters wanted to go along to cover Keith's visit and the inauguration, Deena said.

The outpouring of support came in response to public appeals Deena made last week. She said at the time she had been trying to arrange the trip ever since Bush won the election, but her previous plans had fallen through.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello's office provided the tickets for the inauguration ceremony. While in Washington, Keith also hopes to meet Bush in person, but the chances of that happening look slim.

Mat Melucci, Costello's administrative assistant in his Washington office, said Monday that Bush's staff had not yet sent Bush last week detailing Keith's request.

"It's just going to be crazy on Friday," Melucci said. "There are going to be so many demands on (Bush's) time."

The fact that the request is from Costello, a Democrat, to the Republican Bush isn't a factor, Melucci said.

"I've learned that when it comes to arranging these kinds of visits, that type of thing doesn't mean much," he said. Melucci said Costello will be glad to meet with Keith and his family if they want to.

Deena said she's very happy, and very encouraged, by the show of community support. She said Keith's classmates offered to give him money for his trip.

Deena said Keith became a Bush fan during the presidential campaign when Bush promised to support more federal funds for AIDS research.

She said any money left over from pending the go toward AIDS research for children.

Death certificate time limit to be proposed

SPRINGFIELD — A state coroners' advisory board will be asked to set a deadline for filing coroners' permanent death certificates.

Bill Anderson, executive secretary of the Illinois Coroners Association, said he will ask the Advisory Board on Necropsy to adopt a rule requiring coroners to file permanent certificates within 30 to 60 days of a death.

"If coroners do not follow the rule, then we contact them and correct the problem," said Anderson, the coroner in McLean County.

The advisory board, established by law in 1985, makes recommendations to improve coroners' offices in Illinois. It does not have the authority to punish coroners.

Anderson proposed the rule after stories showed that Jersey County Coroner Paul Schroeder failed to file death certificates for months and, in some cases, years.

Long delays in filing death certificates prolong emotional strain on grieving families, who need them to get insurance benefits, pay funeral bills and settle estates, Anderson said.

"If they're not filed on time, it causes a lot of grief and problems for families," said Greene County Coroner Jess Hires.

Schroeder refused to comment on the proposal.

Coroners Dallas Burke and Charles Landers of Madison and Macoupin counties said a deadline for filing coroner death certificates is overdue.

House Majority Leader Jim McPike, D-Alton, said the Legislature should consider a proposal to set a deadline for death certificates.

Health benefit law proposed

SPRINGFIELD — All companies with at least five employees would be required to provide health insurance to employees under a law proposed by two legislators Jan. 10.

The legislation is being pushed by the Illinois Hospital Association.

Sen. Howard Carroll and Rep. John Cullerton, both Chicago Democrats, said those now covered by insurance are subsidizing those who are not. The legislators plan to introduce a bill for consideration this spring.

The Accessible Care Today proposal would require the employer to pay 80 percent of the cost of premiums while employees would pay 20 percent.

Premiums would go into a pool to underwrite the policies.

Backers estimated employees would pay $70 a month for each employee, and the workers would pay $16 a month in premium payments.

The estimated cost to employers is expected to be about $428 million, with about $10,000 employees covered by insurance.

That still would leave about 800,000 part-time workers not qualifying for the coverage, plan backers said. The bill proposes that workers who put in at least 17½ hours a week would have to be offered the health insurance.

A percentage of the premiums from the plan also would be used to provide the same minimum health benefits package to as many as 80,000 Illinoisans collecting unemployment compensation.

Although details still are being worked out, the required coverage would include physician care, inpatient and outpatient hospital care and other services. There would be a $500 calendar year deductible and employees would have to pay no more than $1,000 a year in addition to the deductible.

Illinois hospitals provide almost $600 million a year in uncompensated care, and the mandatory insurance plan could keep many of those hospitals from closing in the future, said Kenneth Robbins, president of the Illinois Hospital Association.

The proposal drew prompt opposition from the Illinois chapter of the National Federation of Independent Business. Executive Director John Davis said 91 percent of the organization's members responding to a recent survey opposed mandatory health insurance.

"We are strongly opposed to mandatory benefits of any kind. Regardless of their intent, mandatory benefits only add another layer of costs to a company, while reducing its ability to provide other, more-desired benefits," Davis said.

Election Board devises system to avoid problem on sewer tax

EAST ST. LOUIS — The Election Board is devising a system for the Feb. 28 election to avoid confusion concerning who is eligible to vote on the Metro-East Sanitary District tax issue.

More than 700 voters from East St. Louis' Ward 1 voted in the Nov. election, but should not have because they are not in MESD's taxing district.

The discrepancy was not found until after the election, but officials said the numbers were too small to make a difference in the final outcome. The issue lost by 1,202 votes.

MESD Director Walter "Shang" Greathouse was encouraged by some to challenge the outcome, but refused, saying, "You can't pick up 1,200 votes in one ward."

On Monday, Greathouse took an MESD map to James Lewis, executive director of the Election Board, to help Lewis designate the boundaries for the February election.

"James said he needed a legal description of the district and I didn't have one before, but I found it. We also gave copies to the county clerks in Madison and St. Clair counties," he said.

Lewis said he is cross-checking county real estate files against the MESD map and tax codes to find out what properties are in the district and are being taxed by the sanitary district.

Once those properties are determined, Lewis said the office will prepare voter registration books used by election judges to show the difference in voter issues. Those not in the district will be given a ballot that does not have carry the MESD tax issue.

He said the same procedure is carried out in state representative elections where four precincts in the city are split. Some vote for candidates in the 13th legislative district, others for 14th district candidates.

"A distinct mark will be made on the voter card identifying the tax code (for MESD). It will be in the upper right hand corner as has been done in past years with legislative seats," he said. "It will be done accurately and correctly."

Although the correction is important, Lewis agreed with Greathouse that the mistake did not cost MESD the tax issue in November.

"It was not a deciding factor," he said. "This time, though, those not paying taxes will not be voting on the issue." The MESD issue would increase taxes to 47.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation for the trip. Afterwards, it will drop back to 31.2 cents above the current 21.68 cents.

The additional funds are needed to improve the flood control system in the Metro-East, including flood gates, underground pumps, drainage ditches and wells. The funds also will match $17 million in federal funds for the entire $31 project.

Although the issue failed in November, the federal government has agreed to hold the money pending the outcome of the Feb. 28 election.

MESD has not had a tax increase since it was organized more than 80 years ago as the East Side Levy District.

WE NEED YOU!!

The Metro-East. Is your home here? Is this where you worship and where your children attend school? Do you earn your living here? If you answered yes to any of these questions ...

The Citizens for Flood Protection Committee

NEEDS YOU!!

Sounds like a war slogan, doesn't it? Well, we're at war. Against the Mississippi River. Have been for 80 years.

But in recent years, we have been losing. We have not kept up our defenses. Our levees and floodgates and canals and drainage ditches are in bad shape.

The river won a major battle in October of 1986, when one of our communities suffered a flood destroying $18 million in property and traumatizing hundreds of citizens.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, our ally, has said that the same destruction can occur in any Metro-East community ... and that we also face the threat of "unprotected floodplain status," which would strangle our economy whether there is a flood or not.

Unprotected status means no mortgage loans for the sale of houses ... no commercial or industrial development ... It means we have no economic future in our region. Only losses for us all.

The Corps of Engineers is ready to go on a $30 million public works project to avert both threats. Our share is $6 million ... only $6 per resident of the region for five years.

This project would protect us from the river, create jobs for hundreds of our workers, avert the threat of flooding and remove the one barrier standing between us and a prosperous future.

And this is why we need your help.

On February 28, voters of the Metro-East will decide our future at the polls. We are asking you to ...

Meyenburg's FTs preserve win over Kahoks

Sluggish Devils get by Gibault Hawks, 65-58

SPARTA — No one's sure why, but the Sparta High School Gymnasium just didn't seem to be made for vintage Red Devil basketball.

VENICE travelled south for last year's Sparta Mid-Winter Tournament as the top seed and limped home sixth. And the losses were to Wood River and Red Bud, two teams the Devils should have put away quickly.

Wednesday found yet another lackluster performance by the Devils in the first round of this year's tournament, but they lived to tell about it. Venice escaped with a 65-58 win over Waterloo Gibault to advance Friday's semifinal against host Sparta (10-5). The Bulldogs hung on for a 65-61 win over Soudan in Wednesday's first game.

Should the Devils get past Sparta, they will likely face top-seeded East St. Louis Assumption in the title game on Saturday. But better performances than Wednesday's will be needed.

"I'm surprised we won," said coach Clinton Harris. "I don't know what to say. We weren't in the rhythm of our game at all."

Trojans picture brighter despite loss to Althoff

By Mike Blackshere

BELLEVILLE — Trojan fans needed a strong stomach this year in watching the team get off to a dismal 1-0 start.

The fans also needed a game program to keep track of the new faces Tuesday when the Trojans faced the Belleville Althoff Crusaders in the first round of the Mazzio's-Belleville East Invitational Tournament.

As a result of a very welcome outbreak of mass academic eligibility, coach Al Collins had all too familiar, Althoff won 57-49 to go 10-4 while Madison dropped to 1-10.

COLLINSVILLE — For the most part, this season's edition of the Lady Warriors has not been known as a free-throw making team.

But Tuesday at Fletcher Gym, the Warriors used a 7-of-9 charity stripe clinic by junior guard Priscilla Meyenburg to defeat the Lady Kahoks 46-38 in a Southwestern Conference game.

The win kept the Warriors in a third-place tie with East St. Louis, a 63-47 winner over Alton on Tuesday, (both teams are now 3-4 in the SWC) while keeping the Lady Kahoks, now 1-6, in the conference basement.

Granite also closed to within a game of the 500 mark with the win at 7-8, while dropping the Lady Kahoks to 7-11.

"Priscilla really did a great job at the line and made some free throws when we needed them the most," said coach John Hutchings. "This was our best game at the line all season. We have lost so many close games this season. It's nice to win one for a change."

As a team, the Warriors canned 12 of 19 free throws (63 percent).

But Collinsville coach Paul Harrington gave the most credit to the Granite City defense, which forced the Lady Kahoks into 33 turnovers.

"Their defense was really tough," Harrington said. "They just played a super game. They simply outplayed us."

"Their big girl (Jennifer Cavness) was fast breaking down the court and we couldn't even keep up with her."

Collinsville broke out on top early on baskets by junior forward Jamie Castillas and senior forward Pam Judge, and played tough defense of its own before Meyenburg hit a 12-foot jumper with 3:30 left in the period to cut the CHS lead to 4-2.

Cavness, who finished with a game-high 20 points, then connected on a three-point play with 2:14 left in the period to give the Warriors the lead for good.

Granite held a 7-4 advantage at the end of the first period before outscoring Collinsville 17-7 in the second quarter to take a 24-11 halftime lead. The Lady Warriors broke the game open by scoring the final 11 points of the period.

The Lady Warriors were able to get the ball inside with a great deal of ease in the second quarter as Cavness pumped home seven points in the period, while Meyenburg added six more points, four of them coming on free throws.

Castillas scored all seven of the Lady Kahok points in the quarter.

"We were able to penetrate a bit more in the second quarter," Hutchings said. "Jennifer got loose a few times and they kept on fouling Priscilla."

Collinsville, led by a six-point performance by Judge, tried to rally in the third quarter as the Lady Kahoks outscored Granite City 9-5 to cut the lead to 29-20 heading into the final period.

Midway through the final period Judge got hot again, scoring six consecutive points, as the Lady Kahoks added to within three (37-34) with 3:34 left.

But freshman Karen Sykes scored her only points of the second half on a short jumper to make it 39-34 before the Lady Kahoks Mary Harvey responded to cut the lead to 39-36 with 2:10 left.

"We made a few mistakes and the took advantage of that," Hutchings said. "Six of our eight losses have been by under 10 points. But the kids executed when they had to have it."

Cavness, third in the area in scoring (21.9) and rebounding (13.4) put the game out of reach in the final minute by connecting on a pair of shots, while Michelle Bequette and Meyenburg added a basket and a free throw, respectively.

Cavness poured home eight points in the final quarter to offset a 10-point fourth quarter by Judge, who led the Lady Kahoks with 18 points. Meyenburg added 13 points, while Castillas finished with 10 points for Collinsville.

"Granite really put it to us," Harrington said. "John really did a great job of coaching. This loss really hurts because we should have won this game."

They had us down at the Masonic tournament, but we came back to win (46-43 in overtime). Teams are going to pack in on Cheryl (6-1 freshman center Stinchfield) and Jamie, so we are going to have to get some outside shooting from someone."

The Lady Warriors are off until Tuesday when they host Belleville East. East St. Louis comes in for another SWC game on Jan. 26.

Defending will take wins over Madison. He'll take wins over anybody. But most of all, Deterding would like a win over a Southwest Conference rival.

When Tim and Jamie Hogan combined for 60 points in a win over Alton on Feb. 27, 1987, the Warriors stood at 8-1 in conference play and had a chance to gain a share of the league title if they could just beat last-place Belleville West the next night at Memorial Gym in the regular-season finale.

But Tim Hogan's jump shot at the buzzer fell off the rim as the Maroons won 61-59. That was the first of 15 straight conference defeats (excluding a win over East St. Louis in the 1987 Jacksonville Tournament which didn't count in the league standings) for the Warriors and Deterding, one of the SWC's most familiar faces over the past 35 years.

"It's the most frustrating thing," said Deterding. "I value the conference games more than anything and we just can't win one."

The Warriors will try to end the 15-game SWC losing streak on Friday. But it will be far from easy. They travel to Alton to face the lightning-quick Red

Warriors hope SWC frustration ends

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Don Deterding doesn't know what it will take for the Warriors to get some more wins. But he has an idea.

"We should schedule Madison the second weekend," Deterding said.

The Trojans have been the only team Granite City has been able to beat since a 5-3 start. The Warriors have since lost seven of nine, with only a win over Madison in the Collinsville Holiday Tournament and a 64-56 triumph over the Trojans at Memorial Gym on Saturday.

Defending will take wins over Madison. He'll take wins over anybody. But most of all, Deterding would like a win over a Southwest Conference rival.

When Tim and Jamie Hogan combined for 60 points in a win over Alton on Feb. 27, 1987, the Warriors stood at 8-1 in conference play and had a chance to gain a share of the league title if they could just beat last-place Belleville West the next night at Memorial Gym in the regular-season finale.

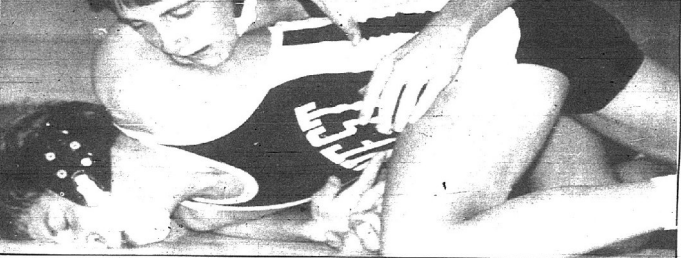

But Tim Hogan's jump shot at the buzzer fell off the rim as the Maroons won 61-59. That was the first of 15 straight conference defeats (excluding a win over East St. Louis in the 1987 Jacksonville Tournament which didn't count in the league standings) for the Warriors and Deterding, one of the SWC's most familiar faces over the past 35 years.

"It's the most frustrating thing," said Deterding. "I value the conference games more than anything and we just can't win one."

The Warriors will try to end the 15-game SWC losing streak on Friday. But it will be far from easy. They travel to Alton to face the lightning-quick Red

Matmen take dead aim on conference championship

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Despite injuries, illness and almost constant lineup juggling, Mike Garland and the Warrior wrestlers have damned the torpedoes and surged.

They finally were forced to retreat a little late weekend, but the matmen put the throttle down again this weekend, and a possible conference championship on the horizon.

"If we can beat Collinsville on Saturday, I think we'll have the conference title," said Garland.

"And it's been a while since Granite City has won the Southwestern Conference."

Despite the unavailability at one time or another of key personnel like senior letterman Rich Fenoglio, Dale Hutson and Jerold Moss, the Warriors rolled off 13 straight dual meet victories before that streak ended on Friday the 13th. Granite City lost three in a row over the weekend, but still had a 15-8 record heading into Wednesday's home meet with Wood River.

"It's a credit to the guys who have been able to compete all year," said Garland. "And the losses last weekend were pretty close (35-23 to Roxana and 34-33 to Francis Howell). If we had one or two of those guys, it might have been different."

That would include stalwarts like junior Chris Hanks (22-4 at 103 pounds), junior Todd Hutchinson (21-8 at 112), senior Bryan Pritchett (24-4 at 119), senior Brad Davis (23-1 at 125), senior Grayson (18-10 at 140), junior Brad Massey (17-7 at 142).

Vacation affords opportunity to see high-flying Illini

A week of vacation is always nice, and last week was no exception.

But for a sports nut like me, a week off from the sports journalism field is just an excuse to dive into more sports — and to keep an eye on the home front. I have to admit that I kept a close watch on the box scores for results of the area teams.

And I was sorry that I missed a couple of sterling individual performances. Jennifer Cavness scored 40 points for the Lady Warriors against Alton. I easily could have witnessed that if I wanted to since the game was played at East Middle School in Alton, which is less than a mile from my house. It was a school record, although far from the state record of 73 points set by Amanda Cunningham of Bridgeport Red Hill last February.

Hosea King of Venice continued to emerge as one of the area's most dominant inside players with a 38-point performance against Madison on Friday. The 6-6 King, who has the shoulders of an NFL player, is among the area leaders in scoring and rebounding and is drawing the attention of college scouts.

But, still, I was happy to let Cavness and King and the rest do their thing last week while I relaxed. Besides, I got to watch in person — perhaps the finest college basketball team in the land on Saturday.

I went to visit a college friend at Kanakake last weekend who promised me a ticket to the Illinois-Michigan game. As we made the drive south to Champaign on Saturday morning, rain, sleet and snow fell. Two game officials were late arrivals due to the weather.

But nothing could stop the Illini. The Wolverines put up a strong fight — they are a Top 10 team themselves. But Illinois beat them back at every turn. Illinois isn't overly tall — Lowell Hamilton and Marcus Liberty are the tallest at 6-8. But they go eight deep and all eight of them are whirling dervishes — running, stealing and dunking the opposition to death.

All of the top eight — Nick Anderson, Steve Bardo, Ken Battle, Kendall Gill, Hamilton, Liberty, Ervin Small and Larry Smith — are at least 6-4 and so quick that the opposition's big men have trouble maneuvering close to the basket without having the ball knocked away. Had Illinois been able to land LaPhonso Ellis, things would have been positively scary up there. As it is, only Hamilton and Battle graduate this year. Five of the other six will be seniors next year, with only Liberty left from that group in two years. But Illinois does have Jacksonville's Andy Kaufmann, the state's leading high school scorer the past three years. And the enormous success they figure to have this year and next will mean more recruiting bonanzas.

This team is so good that even Lou Henson — he of the gravity-defying hairdo — might not be able to mess things up. This Gang of Eight might be able to overcome any of Henson's questionable decisions.

As my friend said upon emerging from the Assembly Hall after the 98-84 win over Michigan, "This team might actually be able to do something this year."

Illinois (15-0) is ranked second in the country. Duke, the only other unbeaten team, is No. 1, but one slip by the Blue Devils could vault the Illini to the top spot. (They are already No. 1 in The Sporting News.)

Stewart's team has by far given Illinois its toughest game so far. The Illini escaped the St. Louis Arena with an 87-84 win on Dec. 19. But Missouri played them on even terms and actually were beating the Illini in the first half.

The Tigers haven't beaten Illinois in the last seven tries, but my dream is that the Black and Gold can cross paths with the Orange and Blue in the NCAA Tournament and make up for each of the previous seven. Missouri deserves its Top 10 ranking and has a pretty solid nucleus itself in Doug Smith, Byron Irvin, Lee Coward, Nathan Buntin, Gary Leonard, Mike Sandbothe, Greg Church and super freshman Anthony Peeler.

They have the ability to pull it off. Brace yourselves.

5 shorthanded goals get skaters back in title hunt

By Dave Whaley

Executive sports editor

Although the Warrior hockey team's roster looked to be at full strength for the first time all year on Monday, they still spent much of the night shorthanded.

But they didn't mind that at all. The Warriors scored an amazing five shorthanded goals in 7-3 win over Hazelwood East at Wilson Park. The win gave Granite City a 5-2 record in the North Division of the Mid States Club Hockey Association (5-8 overall). And with McClellan North beating Hazelwood Central on Monday, the Warriors are right in the hunt for a possible division championship.

"The stage is set," said Warrior coach Gary Henson. "McCluer North and Hazelwood Central both have one loss in the division. If we can beat Central by five goals and McCluer North by two, we could possibly win it."

The Warriors lost to both teams earlier in the year, but Henson said Hazelwood Central is having eligibility problems with some of its key players. The Warriors and Hawks will play Saturday at 9:15 p.m. at the North County rink. McCluer North comes to Wilson Park on Jan. 30.

And Granite City figures to be tougher in the last part of the season with Jim Robertson back on the ice. The Warriors' leading scorer a year ago, Robertson got league clearance to play on Sunday and was in the lineup Monday, getting two goals and an assist.

It took the speedy senior only 1:56 to score the game's first goal — on his first shift of the season. He stole the puck and scored unassisted. It was the first shorthanded goal of the night.

Not to be outdone was this year's leading scorer, junior Matt Schnefke. He scored a shorthanded goal with 2:51 left in the first period, only to see Robertson get another one six seconds later on an assist by John Galinski.

Schnefke made it 4-0 with the fourth shorthanded goal three minutes into the second period. The Spartans' John Spotsnik wrapped a pair of goals — one on the power play around Warrior goals by freshman Chad St. Peters and senior Mike Parkinson later in the second period. St. Peters' goal was shorthanded and was assisted by Chris Burns and Bill Gruwell. Schnefke assisted on Parkinson's goal.

Spotsnik completed a hat trick in the final two minutes of the game, but Galinski made it 7-3 with 54 seconds left on assists from Nathan Weaver and Robertson.

NOTES: The game with Layette originally scheduled for Jan. 2 and rescheduled for last night was postponed again. It will be played on Jan. 25 at Wilson Park at 9:15 p.m. The Warriors play Francis Howell on Friday at North County beginning at 9:15 before Saturday's game with Hazelwood Central. Francis Howell is a division game, too. Granite City is at home Monday at 8:30 p.m. against Chaminade.

Lady Warriors hosting regional

The Lady Warriors could be in line for a regional championship this year.

Granite City hosts a Class AA regional Feb. 6-8, and John Hutchings' team will likely bring in the best record of the four participants.

East St. Louis (currently 5-1) faces Cahokia (4-10) in the first game at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 6 at Memorial Gym. The Lady Warriors (7-8) will face Roxana (4-18) immediately following that game. The winners of these two games will meet for the Granite City Regional championship at 7 p.m. on Feb. 6.

The Granite City Regional champion will join winners from Belleville West, Collinsville and Wood River at the Highland Sectional on Feb. 13-16. The winner there meets the Paris Sectional winner in the Highland Super-Sectional on Feb. 20 at 7 p.m. The winner there advances to the girls' state tournament in Champaign on Feb. 23-25.

Pairings for the area's other Class AA regionals are: Belleville West (Feb. 7) vs. Belleville Alhoff (5-11), 6:30; Belleville East (10-9) vs. East St. Louis Lincoln (9-3), immediately following; winners meet at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 9 for championship. Collinsville: Feb. 7 — Highland (15-1) vs. Triad (5-12), 6:30 p.m.; Edwardsville (13-6) vs. Collinsville (7-11), immediately following; winners meet at 7 p.m. Feb. 9 for championship.

Wood River: Feb. 8 — Jerseyville (17-0) vs. Wood River (6-11), 6:30 p.m.; Alton (7-10) vs. Civic Memorial (3-7), immediately following; winners meet at 7 p.m. Feb. 9 for championship.

In Class A, the Madison Trojans (13-7) are seeded second in the Alton-Marquette Regional. The Trojans will face the winner of Marquette (8-7) vs. Dupo (2-10) on Feb. 8 immediately following the conclusion of a 6:30 p.m. game between top-seeded Columbia (7-5) and the Braxtonville (1-12) winner. Those first two games will be played on Feb. 6. The winners of the Feb. 6 games will meet Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. for the regional championship.

The Marquette Regional winner will join winners from Piasa, Carrollton and Litchfield at the Greenville Sectional on Feb. 13-16. The winner there advances to meet the Mason City Sectional winner in the Greenville Super-Sectional at 7 p.m. Feb. 20. The winner there goes to the girls' state tournament in Champaign on Feb. 23-25.

Cougars raise record to 12-2

By Al Barnes

Correspondent

EDWARDSVILLE — The SIUE Cougars posted their sixth straight home victory Saturday by upsetting highly-ranked Kentucky Wesleyan 88-77.

The win, coupled with Tuesday's 88-87 win over Quincy, ran SIUE's overall record to 12-2 and almost assured the Cougars of a top 10 ranking in NCAA Division II.

Larry Graham's team wasted no time in establishing its domination over the Panthers by scoring the game's first seven points. SIUE led 40-29 at halftime. The Cougars were led by 6-5 guard Tim Brown of Evanson. He scored 29 points while making 13 of 19 shots from the field.

Wesleyan never gave up, coming within five points with six minutes left. But SIUE held on as three players joined Brown in double figures. Edgar Wilson and Phil Wahl had 14 points each and Odell Tidwell had 10.

The two schools split last year, but Wesleyan leads the all-time series 10-4. The teams also met once in post-season play, with the Panthers beating the Cougars 89-86 in the 1987 Great Lakes Regional championship.

SIUE faced Quincy College on Tuesday and will return home to face Harris-Stowe State College tonight. The Cougars play at Wisconsin-Milwaukee on Saturday before returning to the Vandalia Center on Monday to face UMSL, one of the two teams to beat them this year.

Trojans

still did not have everyone available to play.

Senior starters Jessie Leonard and Tim Smith both had to sit out the game under doctor's orders. They were injured in a car wreck Saturday night, and although neither was seriously injured they were both very sore.

"We were very disorganized with a bunch of new guys out there that really hadn't worked together before," Collins said. "Even though we have everyone eligible, we still had to start four sophomores with Smith and Leonard out."

Even though the Trojans lost again, the outlook for their season is suddenly brighter with the addition of some previously ineligible players.

Senior Aaron Jones (6-3), 5-8 senior Sherwin Coleman and 5-9 sophomore Andre Mays all played Tuesday for the first time this season. Senior James Haynes (6-0) also played after being ineligible for all but two of Madison's games in the first semester.

Coleman led all scorers with 16 points and Jones pulled down a game-high 12 rebounds, which was also a season high for the Trojans.

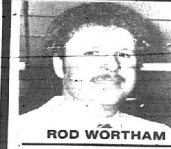

"It wasn't a good game at all. It was an ugly game," Although coach Brad Harriman said, "We gave up too many offensive rebounds. We had a size advantage, but we just stood around and watched. I'm not proud of our effort."

Crusader center Danny Serkin was not a factor because he was in foul trouble much of the game. He finished with nine points and seven rebounds.

"In this game it (Serkin's foul trouble) really changed what we wanted to do," Harriman added. "We felt we should have been able to score everytime we got the ball inside."

The Trojans trailed 45-31 after three quarters but didn't give up. They played their best ball of the game in the fourth quarter, outscoring the Crusaders 18-12.

"We started to tell a little bit at the end of the game," Collins added. "It is like we are starting all over again."

and junior Larry Hahne (15-10-1 at 180). That's seven potential 30-match winners, with four of them having a chance at 30.

"I told Hankins if he could get down to 103 that I thought he could be successful this year," Garland said. "He has all the tools if he just believes in himself. He became a believer after he beat (Randy) Tedesco (of Belleville East)."

And Massey wrestled as good as I've ever seen him last week-end (when he won the Hazelwood Central quad). He has been very solid. And Brent has been terrific. We moved him up to 130 here recently to get him ready for the regionals. He'll move back down to 125 then."

Hutson (275) might be out for the season with an elbow injury suffered against Belleville East on Jan. 5.

"I thought it was just a hyper-extension, but there might be a chip in there," Garland said. "At this time of year, it will be tough to get back in the lineup and be effective. But Rocky Moss has stepped in and done a fine job."

Fenoglio was out all last week with illness and Jerold Moss is being worked back in slowly after his shoulder injury in the pre-season. That creates a hole in the middle of the lineup. Outside of Davis' five wins at 130 and Fenoglio's 18-4 mark, the Warriors are 17-30 from 130 up to 152, and they're 1-24 at 152. But Garland has been forced to go with lots of freshmen and sophomores in these spots.

"These middle weights are our Achilles heel," he said. "If our lighter guys and our upper weight guys don't win, we're in trouble. But it's tough when you have younger guys going against seniors. That's a tremendous disadvantage."

The Warriors got back on the winning track Wednesday at Memorial Gym with a 50-20 win over Wood River. The match was added to the schedule just a couple of weeks ago.

Again, Granite City's only problems were in the middle weight classes as defeats were suffered at 140, 145 and 152. But the Warriors got pins from freshman Ryan King (103), Pritchett, Doug Edwards, Hahne and Moss to get the easy victory.

birds (3-1 in the SWC, 10-2 overall). And the Warriors will likely be without the services of junior three-point specialist Matt Cook, who injured his ankle against Madison and was on crutches earlier this week.

"Matt's very doubtful," said Deterding. "I don't know who will start in his place. Joe Wallace can give us an outside shot. Mike Dillier's a little stronger, but he lacks speed. And Andy Lampitt will give us defense and rebounding, but very little offense."

Freshman Jeff Smith will not start. In fact, Deterding is moving Smith back down to the junior varsity. The 6-6 center averaged eight points in seven games, but Deterding feels he will be better off gaining more experience at the JV level.

In retrospect, it might have been a mistake bringing him up so quickly. "Jeff started out pretty well, but he was having some trouble in the game," Deterding said. "He was the end of the year. Maybe by the end of the year, he and his (twin) brother (5-6 Brian) will be back up. I don't know."

Senior Mike Wilkinson has established himself as the team's most consistent player with several outstanding games. He poured in 29 points on Saturday.

"It's not just Mike's scoring," do much when Daryl (Jackson) was on him."

Hosea King had taken charge in recent weeks for the Devils, but he had an off-night Wednesday, scoring only 12 points. Jackson picked up the slack with 22 points and sophomore guard Erwin Claggett chipped in with 17.

"Usually our big men have good games and we have trouble at guard," Harris said. "But Claggett had a good game and so did John White. But this was the worst game I've seen Hosea play. His body was here, but his mind was somewhere else. But he's played a lot of good games. I guess he's due for a bad one."

The Devils trailed only once at 42, then ripped off the next 10 points for a 12-4 lead. For the rest of the night they let the Hawks get close, then pulled away a little, but never a lot. Claggett's three-pointer just before halftime gave Venice a seven-point lead.

The lead stuck right around seven and went to 10 for most of the second half. It was 62-56 when Meff missed an easy layup with 2:45 left. Jackson scored on a rebound and the other end to put the game out of reach. Tim

Deterding said. "He's doing everything well and doing it every game."

Deterding is hoping the Warriors can shoot over 50 percent, something they did for the first time all year on Saturday.

"If demoralizes them when they can't make their shots," Deterding said. "The name of the game is shooting and it affects the rest of their game. Now with Matt out, we don't have that potential big scorer from outside. So we'll have to work harder to make things happen."

Cook had been slowed down in recent games, and Madison even put a box-and-one on him before he was injured.

"Matt's a parked man," said Deterding. "And it's a vicious circle. The harder he tries, the worse things get."

Help will be on the way in February when senior Shawn Tripp rejoins the team. Tripp was ineligible for the first semester and Deterding believes that was a major setback.

"I know it sounds like sour grapes, but I think we might have lost only three or four games with Tripp in there," Deterding said. "He'll be back for the first game in February (at Collinsville on Feb. 3)."

Alton is led by Kevin Caldwell, the nephew of former Redbird star Larry Smith of the University of Illinois. Caldwell is averaging 23.8 points. Joe Vann is averaging 20.9 points. For once, the smallish Warriors will have a size advantage since the Redbirds don't have a starter over 6-0. Vann, at 5-11, starts at center.

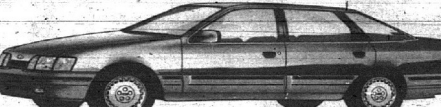

But the Redbirds can fly. They beat Venice on Saturday, becoming the first visiting team other than East St. Louis Lincoln to win at Venice in six years.

"They're tough and they can fly," Deterding said. "That win over Alton two years ago must seem like an eternity ago to Deterding."
